Red Mass Celebrated Nov. 14:

Alumni, Students in Attendance

The annual Red Mass was held on Thursday, Nov. 7, 1963 at the church of St. Thomas of Villanova on the campus at 7 p.m. The Red Mass and the lighting of the Holy Spirit, is offered to invoke the Divine Blessing upon the Law School and all those who are involved in the practice of law.

Officiants of Mass

The Most Reverend Francis E. Hyland, retired Bishop of Atlanta, celebrated the Mass. Father John A. Einkmeier, O.S.A., the President of the University, was the Archpriest. Father Barrett, O.S.A., the Dean, College of Commerce and Finance was the Deacon. The Subdeacon was Father Robert J. Walsh, O.S.A., the Dean, College of Liberal Arts.

In addition, Father Joseph T. Dailey, a member of the Chapel staff, O.S.A., were the Masters of Ceremonies. Finally, Father Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A. was the preacher. He is currently the President of Merrimack College.

Music for the Mass

The singing during Mass was provided by the Villanova Singers, the undergraduate glee club. Herbert J. Daley who will address the graduating class of 1964, and Father Barrett, O.S.A., were the Masters of Ceremonies. Finally, Father Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A. was the preacher. He is currently the President of Merrimack College.

The singing was mostly polyphonic, although all but the Offertory in the Prayer of the Mass was done in Gregorian Chant.

Father McQuade spoke generally on Civil Rights and the Negro. He emphasized the disproportionately low amount of Negroes in the professions and the business world as compared with the White Race. He illuminated his point with several revealing statistics.

Effort Urged

He encouraged more action and personal involvement for the Negro and for the non-Negro in an effort to stem the increasing radical trend in the Civil Rights Movement.

After the Red Mass, the alumni and friends of the Law School were invited to a banquet in the Law School. Apparently, all who attended were more than satisfied with the sumptuous food and the fine selection of beverages.

Villanova Law Graduates Take Bar Exams;
Forty Admitted to Practice in Four States

Villanova Law School will have twenty-six of its alumni admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar this year. This number places Villanova third among Pennsylvania law schools behind the University of Pennsylvania and Duquesne. Elsewhere, New Jersey will accept seven alumni, New York five and Massachusetts one.

Upon completion of the six month clerkship required in Pennsylvania the following will be admitted to practice: Eugene Aliassandroni, James Aloysi, Michael Bianchini, Robert Bloom, Michael Bradbury, Thomas Currigan, Jr., William Coyle, Michael Davis, Francis Ferrara, William Gallagher, Jr., Kenneth Garber, Robert Godwin, Jr., Robert Jackson, Howard Klein, John Foley, Kenneth Kramer, Ned Manafo, Joseph Polito, Lawrence Roth, Alan Sanders, Edward Sarvas, Sturt Svetz, Edwin Scott, Walter Sullivan, John Taliero, John Walsh, Jr., and Paul Weinberg.

In New York, Villanovans can:

(Continued on Page 4)

Dilworth, Semer Open Forum's Series;
Speak on Mass Transit, Redevelopment

Former Mayor of Philadelphia, Richardson Dilworth, highlighted the second meeting of the Villanova Law Forum on Wednesday, Nov. 20 with a discussion on mass transportation for the urban complex.

Dilworth, presently with the federal government as assistant secretary of Mass Transit, was the second speaker in the Forum's series, "The Third Phase of Its Problems." Milan P. Semer, General Counsel of the FHA, was the Forum's first speaker on Oct. 23.

Daley on Feb. 27

The third speaker in the current series will be the Honorable Richard J. Daley who will address the Forum on Tuesday, Feb. 27. Daley is presently mayor of Chicago, Ill.

Dilworth spoke of the city as the center of the urban complex and the transition of society from rural to its increasingly urban status. Centering mainly on the East Coast belt from Washington to Boston, Dilworth held to the lack of urban planning due to the bankrupt conditions of the cities during the depression.

More Highways not Solution

"Highways themselves are not the answer to the transportation problem," the former mayor said. He pointed out the need, especially in Philadelphia, of an area-wide transit authority. The cost of tearing down buildings and constructing new ones is much greater than the redevelopment of transportation facilities.

Philadelphia already has these facilities and the city like other cities has turned to the federal government due to the states' failure or inability to help in the crisis. Dilworth added that the development of an inter-city rail passenger system was also necessary to implement the specific urban authorities. After his talk, Dilworth answered many interesting questions from the audience.

Semer substituted for Robert H. Weaver, Administrator of the FHA, who was unable to attend because of congressional budget hearings. He first told the Forum a little of the history of the FHA and its role in urban redevelopment.

It was noted that 60 per cent of the participating communities have populations of less than 50,000. A Supreme Court decision allowing good buildings to be torn down as a phase of overall planning has aided in the coordination of federal and local cooperation.

In the Future

Semer said, "Redevelopment will cause problems but cooperation with the local level has made adjustment easier." He added, "The increasing number of Negroes in the cities is a pressing and ethical problem which the urban society must solve."
As I See It
by Harold G. Reuschlein

I am not at all certain just when it is that a School of Law organizes an intimate little dinner attended by the students, faculty, alumni and friends. And, incidentally, numbering about sixty, the Law Review, a faculty, the Board of Consultants and members of the School administration, began to function as its "fine traditions." I think ten years does it and, since last year's "Decennial Dinner" marked the conclusion of the School of Law's first decade of service, we may speak now of "fine old traditions."

Among the finest of our traditions has been the Annual Christmas Party, inaugurated as an intimate little dinner attended by the faculty, alumni and friends of the School (then numbering about sixty), the Law Review, representatives of the School administration, and the Board of Consultants. In 1960 we graduated our first class and, happily, since then our alumni have been in increasing numbers for the dinner. I believe that some time in the not too distant future, we should imagine a Penn-Law Week-ends at which time alumni may return, not only for fun, but for intellectual stimulation in the form of well-conceived and stimulating discussions about the problems of the School of Law and such other offerings as will help to tie our alumni into the work of the School. Our alumni are becoming recollection of the School of Law, for a time, from their meritorious and wifely duties and get together. Among the finest of our traditions has been the Annual Christmas Party, inaugurated as an intimate little dinner attended by the faculty, alumni and friends of the School (then numbering about sixty), the Law Review, representatives of the School administration, and the Board of Consultants. In 1960 we graduated our first class and, happily, since then our alumni have been in increasing numbers for the dinner. I believe that some time in the not too distant future, we should imagine a Penn-Law Week-ends at which time alumni may return, not only for fun, but for intellectual stimulation in the form of well-conceived and stimulating discussions about the problems of the School of Law and such other offerings as will help to tie our alumni into the work of the School. Our alumni are becoming reformation of the School of Law, for a time, from their meritorious and wifely duties and get together.

We propose to make a beginning this year with the inaugura- tion of such a program. The date is Saturday, April 11. The day's activities will begin in the early afternoon after the Annual Moot Court Competition. Opposing each other in this final argument will be faculty, the Board of Consultants and members of the School administration, and the Board of Consultants. In 1960 we graduated our first class and, happily, since then our alumni have been in increasing numbers for the dinner. I believe that some time in the not too distant future, we should imagine a Penn-Law Week-ends at which time alumni may return, not only for fun, but for intellectual stimulation in the form of well-conceived and stimulating discussions about the problems of the School of Law and such other offerings as will help to tie our alumni into the work of the School. Our alumni are becoming reformation of the School of Law, for a time, from their meritorious and wifely duties and get together.

The participants from each club will be more than welcome to attend the party. They will be represented by members of the faculty, alumni, students, and guests. The members did not direct all their time to legal work, though. Most attended a dinner that evening a buffet was served; the fare included appetizers, roast chicken, followed on December 15 with no little glee that the 1963 Annual Law School Giving campaign had concluded with 82% of our law alumni giving. And now as I write, our alumni are mobilizing for the 1964 Annual Giving. Alumni President Anthony J. Ryan, '58 has appointed Joseph A. Waltem "as Chairman for the 1964 Campaign. We are again in good hands and I feel genuinely confident that when it's all over we will be proud as always of our alumni.

And now as we head into 1964, let me remind all of our alumni practicing in Pennsylvania, let me remind all of our alumni practicing in Pennsylvania, that we shall have a luncheon for all Villanova Law School alumni. It will be held on the first day of the Convention of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association on Sunday, January 28, at the Bellevue Stratford. This is the first time that the Council has endeavored to assemble our alumni at a Bar Association Convention. This is an event toward which I have looked hopefully for a long time. I am happy to know that a group of alumni practice in Pennsylvania.

In the organized alumni activity is wonderful — but what we enjoy more than all else is your individual visits to Garey Hall. Come on out — watch the wheels go 'round — and visit with us.
Alumni News From the Field;
Reunions, Notes Added.

Captain Joseph Kelly '59 is at an Air University, a finishing school for company grade officers, at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. A tour of duty in Turkey will follow later in the year.

Tom Caffrey '63 is now associated with the law firm of Tomlinson & Hatch in Lawrence, Mass.

Neil Eshahan '62, who is with the FBI in Miami, Fla., recently flew into Philadelphia on a trip.

Tom Creggan '63 announced that "the Downtown Lunchen Club" of the Class of '63 meets on Wednesdays at the Turin Motel, 1231 Chestnut Street.

There was an unannounced reunion of the class of '62 when Bill VanAllen and his wife visited Hawaii on a vacation and were entertained by Jim Burns.

Miss Jeanne Ward '56 was recently admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States in Washington, D.C.

The Alumni had a Christmas gathering.

The Alumni had a Christmas gathering.

The class representatives are:

Births...

David London '56 and his wife announce the birth of Kenneth C. November 19, 1963.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kerwick '66 have a son, Michael F., born on November 7, 1963.

Frank Benenanti '63 and his Mrs. received their third child, Matthew, on October 20. Matthew has a sister Jennifer, 5, and an older brother Michael, age 7.

The Robert Suters '65 announce the birth of their second child, Robert Jr. The Suters have an older boy, Kevin.

Thomas (Santa Claus) Twarowski '64 became the proud father of a daughter, Lisa Ann, on August 11, 1963.

James McHugh, law clerk for Associate Justice Thomas Clarke of the U.S. Supreme Court, a graduate with th class of 1962 was recently married.

Kelly '59 is also there in the administrative department.

Alumni Association

The officers of the Villanova Law School Association (our Alumni) for 1963-1964 are: President—Anthony J. Ryan '58; Vice President—Lawrence F. Flinn '62; Secretary—Thomas E. Eichman '58; Treasurer—Robert H. Ford '63.

The class representatives are:

Marriages...

Andrew VanDorosco '60, married Judy Tyroler of Stratford, Pa., on June 1.

Edwin W. Scott '63 wed Miss Mary Truman on October 26, 1963.

Bernard '62 and Oramas Avellino were married this past June.

Jack Bernstein '65 was married to Barbara Levin of Philadelphia on June 2, 1963.

Joseph P. McCurdy, also a second year student was wed on September 26, 1963.

Richard '66 and Margaret S. Azim were married in Virginia, August 9, 1963.

Thomas J. Bradley '54 married the former Margaret M. Crumlish of Philadelphia on June 29.

Robert S. Mundawie '56 was married in New York in August.

Guest Attorneys Explain Their Methods To Students in Criminal Procedure Class

To teachers who find pure classroom technique monotonous, and to professional men who view graduate school too remote from practice, Professor Gerald V. Abraham offers a rare formula for the "Best of Both Worlds.

Abraham forged a friendly setup of visiting lecturers, starlight from the field of practice in criminal law, with lively question and answer periods that often sent the meetings into interesting overtime.

Assistant D. A. Open

On December 4 Assistant District Attorney Joseph M. Smith gave the first lecture dealing specifically with the step-by-step machinery of the criminal law from arrest to indictment by the Grand Jury, and specifically with the step-by-step machinery at which the defendant is advised of rights and explained the considerations of the Grand Jury when it "hands down" a true bill or "ignoramus." Much of the discussion centered on the establishment of "probable cause" by the prosecution in these initial proceedings; a point on which Abraham's class spent much time and which one Smith proved in depth.

Pollock for the Defense

On December 16 Mr. Herman L. Pollock of the Defenders Association of Philadelphia brought his particular skills to the "Ivory Tower World." Pollock concentrated his discussion on the Gideon decision, that guarantees defendant's counsel, but does not outline when, where or in what proceedings. These areas have been meticulously surveyed in Abraham's classwork.

Pollock connected Gideon with constitutional law, with the step-by-step machinery so imitated "this decision is not to be isolated from those cases that implicate the rights of individuals." He added, "it is the lawyer, and only the lawyer, who may act on these rights and bring them to a reality." Pollock also described the physical staff of the city's voluntary defenders. Said one interested novice, "The confrontation with other than classroom ideas added much meaning to Mr. Abraham's class."
Giannella Reflects on Techniques, Interests
Explains Role of Institute of Church and State

A law professor who believes his purpose is to teach students to think and work for themselves has applied this philosophy to his own study of church and state issues.

Donald A. Giannella, Professor of Law, has been an active member of the Institute of Church and State since coming to Villanova in 1960. He now serves as director and is also working on a Journal called Religion and The Public Order, a project the Institute plans to begin publishing early in 1964. “The Public Order” refers to society’s attempts to enforce law. The journal will serve as a yearbook review devoted to church, state and society.

Giannella’s particular interest in the journal is a section on recent developments. He worked last summer on a survey of cases which involve the interplay of religion and law and administrative and legislative developments in the past year. In accordance with his philosophy of teaching students to work and think for themselves, Giannella has not attempted to present one point of view. Rather, the section reflects the basic aims of the institute — to serve as source material for future scholars of church and state.

The Institute held annual conferences from 1957 to 1961 which provided further opportunities for these dialogues. Proceedings from the first two conferences have been published and two more are being published. Representatives of all faiths participated in these conferences. Among them were Leo Pfeffer, then Director of the Commission on Law and Social Action, American Jewish Committee, Robert F. Drinan, S. J., Dean of the Boston College Law School, and Mark DeWitt, former President of Harvard School of Law.

Third Annual Order of Coif Meeting Highlighted
By Dinner, Election of Officers, Forum Speech

The Third Annual Dinner of the Villanova Chapter of the Order of the Coif, held in Guyce Ball on Friday evening October 18th, was the occasion of the election of new officers, induction of members from the Class of 1960, and an address by Professor Milton C. Semer, General Counsel for the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The Order of the Coif is a national honorary legal society with chapters in almost all of the leading law schools in the country. The Villanova chapter is the only chapter attached to a law school which is sponsored by a Catholic order. The Villanova chapter was founded only two years ago. The Order restricts its individual membership to those students who are in the top ten per cent of their graduating class, and who have contributed substantially to the work of the law review.

The new officers elected to guide the Villanova chapter during the next year are: President, Anthony L. Bartolini, ’58, Vice-President, William J. Conners, ’60, Secretary-Treasurer, Francis P. Conners, ’58. The new officers supervised the installation of the following members from the Class of 1964: Michael R. Bradley, Robert J. Jackson, Ivo W. Pease, Stuart H. Savett, and Edwin W. Scott.

The guests at this year’s dinner included The Reverend John A. Keelan, O.S.A., President of Villanova University, Dean Reuschlein, and Semer.

After the installation of new officers and members was over the guests adjourned to the First Year room, at which time Semer delivered his address entitled “Dynamic of the Law Under Urban Change”. This year marked the first time that the speech was delivered in conjunction with the meeting of the Villanova Law Forum.

Collins Recovered: Returns to Classes

Professor J. Edward Collins will resume his teaching duties as of the start of the second semester. Professor Collins missed much of the first semester due to a serious illness, but has satisfactorily recuperated.

Vincent Halsey and Albert Janney, Student Bar Association representatives, reported that the Student Bar Association, as a non-profit organization, will not have funds to purchase the Pennsylvania Common Pleas Practice book. This book, used for the course in Pennsylvania Practice is the only book provided with the course, and is out of stock. The new edition is expected to be released this summer.

The Second Year returned the same order as members of the Honor Board.

The First Year Elected John Cleary and Joe Mullin as their representatives on the Student Bar Association. Cleary is a resident of Drexel Hill and an alumnus of Villanova, Mullin resides in Norristown and is a graduate of St. Joseph’s College.

The William McHugh and John Witte.

Professor Donald A. Giannella

Giannella went on to talk about his teaching career. He became a law professor somewhat by accident. Forced to take a vacation from practice because of ill health, he returned to his alma mater, Harvard, as a teaching fellow, “I was lured away by the academic life, and could never go back to practice.” However, he pointed out, the law professor must stay close to his field—law is a practical discipline.

Having taught administrative law, labor law, criminal law, regulations, contracts and international law, he considers labor and administrative law his favorite courses, “partly because I have more interest in these fields and partly because the classes are more interesting.”

Giannella feels that the real test of a law professor is whether or not he can teach first year students. “Those in their second and third years can more easily engage in a Socratic dialogue. They are more equal in discussion and can argue back and forth with the professor.”

Professor Collins missed much of his own law practice in Philadelphia.

First Two Years
Elect Their New Representatives

Important elections have recently been held among the First and Second Year Students. This is a yearly ritual whereby they are given a chance to participate in the selection of officers for the student activities.

The Villanova Student Bar Association was the first group to hold elections to fill its vacancies. Joe Busaca and Connie Dellelce were the Second Year’s choice. Both are devoted and untiring in the execution of their duties.

Second Year Members

Busaca is now serving his second year on the Student Bar. He is a graduate of Villanova University and a resident of Radnor. DeJesue is a resident of Upper Darby and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

The First Year Elected John Cleary and Joe Mullin as their representatives on the Student Bar Association. Cleary is a resident of Drexel Hill and an alumnus of Villanova.

Collins Recovered: Returns to Classes

Professor J. Edward Collins will resume his teaching duties as of the start of the second semester. Professor Collins missed much of the first semester due to a serious illness, but has satisfactorily recuperated.

Vincent Halsey and Albert Janney, Student Bar Association representatives, reported that the Student Bar Association, as a non-profit organization, will not have funds to purchase the Pennsylvania Common Pleas Practice book. This book, used for the course in Pennsylvania Practice is the only book provided with the course, and is out of stock. The new edition is expected to be released this summer.

The Second Year returned the same order as members of the Honor Board.

The First Year Elected John Cleary and Joe Mullin as their representatives on the Student Bar Association. Cleary is a resident of Drexel Hill and an alumnus of Villanova, Mullin resides in Norristown and is a graduate of St. Joseph’s College.

The Villanova Honor Board’s positions were also filled. The Second Year returned the members as it had sent last year. Jim Griffith and John Good are both serving their second terms as members of the Honor Board.

Griffith hails from Clemonten, and is a graduate of St. Francis College in Loretto. Good is a graduate of Lycoming College, and he calls home—Williamsport. Both are currently residing in the area of the Law School.

First Year Members

First Year members of the Honor Board Joe Tate and Nino Timani, Tate is a graduate of Villanova University and a resident of Ardsmore. Timani, is an alumnus of St. Joseph’s College and living in Holyoke.