As I See It...
By Harold Gill Reuschlein

It is a real pleasure to welcome the Law School Class of 1969 to Villanova. By design this year's entering class is not as large as in recent years. A smaller class should be counted as a favor to the School thus far — and we do expect you to prove us right in our estimate of your worth. This "advanced special issue" of the Docket is intended to make you welcome and to start you auspiciously upon your new careers.

There is one idea, above all others, which must govern everything you do from the moment you first set foot in Cary Hall. You must come here with the full realization that you have now entered the legal profession. As a profession you are a curricular-program as something which every student must have — and if you go on to win your law degree and your license, you will have embraced a career which of necessity makes you a student your lifetime through. This means that from the very first day you come to Villanova University and to the School thus far — and until you pass your bar examination, not when you graduate from law school, but on your very first day as a law student. From now on you must be a student in the finest sense of the term. Indeed, you must remain a friendly place despite the fact that we have this year's entering class is not our usual complement of students who remain a friendly place. I am determined that the School of Law will remain a friendly place. I am determined that the School of Law will remain a friendly place. The Villanova Docket interprets the School of Law to our legal alma mater and other friends. The Universitwide lectures and musical events are also here for you to enjoy. You will find opportunities for service in public defender programs and various programs to provide legal service to the poor. All of these opportunities for service will provide valuable experience and earning potential for leadership was established here with creative leadership, the individual can no longer excuse his failure to meet the integration requirements. Thomas P. Carroll clerked in the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office, where he handled criminal cases for the Department of Appeals. Mary C. Cucinotta, '65, of the Philadelphia Bar Association, worked for Tolson, Solom & Keznick. John C. Jenkins clerked in the firm of Rosenn, Perrett, Braver, Penna. Martin G. McGuigan was hired by the Philadelphia firm of Goodhue, Smith, Spahr, Andrews & Ingersoll. Others serving clerkships include the following positions later in the year:

Various Summer Positions Attract Students
Summer for most people is a time for vacation and relaxation, but for the Villanova Law School student it is a time for gaining valuable experience and earning some money. Students are employed in jobs varying from law clerk work to campaign work. Lee Silverstein worked as a law clerk in the firm of Craven, Shalosky, Green & Palos. He represented the General Counsel in Washington, D.C., which does all the civilian legal work for the Navy. Washington was also the home of James J. Deery, Donald W. De Leo, and James J. Falco, '65, working for the Office of Educa­ tion, in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. They interviewed school boards to see if they are meeting the integration requirements.
